PRIVACY POLICY

You must read Henley Securities' Privacy Policy which forms part of the Terms and Conditions Henley Securities' Privacy Policy is accessible from this website.

FRAUD

Henley Securities is committed to providing the highest quality of services to its clients in a trusted environment. Internet fraud is a major concern for financial services providers worldwide. Most Internet and email scams usually involve an email claiming to be from your financial service provider. It usually asks you to send your account details such as your password or PIN, either by return email or through a website link. The fraudsters may use various tricks to lower your guard such as security and maintenance upgrade, investigation of irregularities or bills or charges due. Here are some safety checks you may find helpful:

- suspect a scam if you are asked for your account details via email;
- never access the Website from links in emails or Internet links;
- keep your computer secure by updating your virus protection on a regular basis and delete suspicious emails without opening them;
- only go to the Website by typing in the Website address in the address bar of your web browser or by using your 'favourites';
- take privacy precautions and keep your logon details and password secret;
- avoid personal transactions at public places like Internet cafes, community centres and libraries; and
- regularly check the services provided to you by Henley Securities for unauthorised transactions.

Henley Securities will never request personal information such as login ID or bank details via emails. Contact Henley Securities or another company immediately if you receive any emails or web links from Henley Securities that requests any personal information that relates to the services that they provide to you.

TERMINATION

1. Henley Securities may terminate access to the Website without notice to you at any time for any reason without giving you any explanation or justification.
2. Neither Henley Securities, or the directors and officers of Henley Securities accept any responsibility for any loss or damage caused directly or indirectly in connection with or arising from terminating access to the Website.
3. The operation of all disclaimers, limitations of liability and indemnities contained in the Terms and Conditions will survive termination of access and use.

WAIVER OF RIGHTS

If Henley Securities waives any of its rights under the Terms and Conditions; it may decide not to waive that right or those rights in the future.

CHANGING TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Henley Securities may change the Terms and Conditions without notice to you at any time for any reason without giving you any explanation or justification.

GOVERNING LAW

The Terms and Conditions are governed by and interpreted in accordance with the law in force in Western Australia. You submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of Western Australia.

YOUR ACCEPTANCE OF TERMS AND CONDITIONS

by continuing to use the Website, you acknowledge that you have read and understood all the Terms and Conditions and agree to be bound by them. If this is not the case, you must stop using the Website immediately.
